22225	PSYC	4950	002	Selected Topics in Psychology Psychology in Film Selected Topics course. PSYC 3350 Introduction to Abnormal Behavior or equivalent is a prerequisite for this course. Provides an examination of psychological concepts in contemporary and historical film, with a focus on mental health, relationships, and the impact of popular film on society. Topics include personality, psychopathology (schizophrenia, dissociative disorders, substance abuse, depression, suicidal ideation), mental health treatment, memory, family dynamics, and accuracy in the depiction of psychological distress. Students will gain the ability to critically evaluate the portrayal of mental illness and abnormal behavior in film. Readings and lectures are connected to examined films. Topics covered will also include developmental, gender, and multicultural issues represented in film. Students will learn by participating in lectures and group discussions, viewing films, reading articles, and completing assignments.	3	TR	11:00A - 12:15P	STK A1061	Snell, Karen	26	OPT
